About Me

I started learning golf when I was about ten. I was introduced to golf by my parents as my father was an avid golfer and would go to the range almost every night then. I would occasionally join him and borrow his golf clubs to try and imitate his swing. He enjoyed playing golf overseas during holidays with my mother, so he decided to get my sister and I to pick up this game so we could all play together as a family.

My sister and I first took lessons together and we got our handicaps to play on the course. My coach invited my sister and I to join their junior squad, where they would have trainings every Sunday and I decided to join them. From then on I have been playing golf competitively.

About Me

My dad and uncle introduced me to this game when I was six. They used to bring me along to the driving range every weekend and I would watch them hit this tiny white ball across the grass. Eventually curiosity got the better of me and I soon joined them in their golf games.

About Me

I started playing golf at the age of 11. Before I started, my brothers and I would follow my dad to the driving range every weekend. From there, we would try to hit balls on our own. When my oldest brother turned 14, my dad wanted to send my two brothers for lessons but not me. I bugged my dad to allow me to tag along and the three of us started learning golf together.

From then on, there was no turning back and my mum would ferry us to the driving range after school everyday. When school holidays came, we would arrange golfing trips overseas and spend the whole day practicing. My parents have given me their silent support over the years and I am very grateful for that.

About Me

My father brought me to the driving range when I was ten years old. He had a vision of the family picking up golf together and enjoying it together. Over time as he exposed me to the world of golf and I discovered how exciting it was to compete and make new friends, I got more interested and decided to take it to the competitive level. I joined the national squad when I was 15 and never looked back since.
