About Me

I've been swimming since I was 10 years old. My parents felt that swimming was an important life skill and thus brought me to learn swimming at a swim school. My interest in it then grew even more when I watched the 2004 Athens Olympics swimming events on TV and was inspired by great athletes such as Ian Thorpe and Michael Phelps who were multiple medalists in the games.

From then on, I began to swim seriously and eventually took up competitive swimming. Since then, I have always looked up to these two people (Ian Thorpe and Michael Phelps) as a source of inspiration and someday I hope to become as great an athlete as they are.

About Me

I picked up the sport about seven years ago when I was learning to swim. Initially, it was just about learning basic survival skills but I found it fun and developed a deeper interest in the sport. It was then that I decided to switch to competitive swimming.

Apart from swimming, I love music and movies. My dream is to play 'Elphaba' in Wicked.

About Me

When I was four years old, I was pushed into the water by my brother's friends and mocked for not knowing how to swim. My brother then taught me how to swim. My interest for swimming grew which led to my mum signing me up for swimming lessons at the Singapore Swimming Club when I was five. I adopted a competitive mindset in swimming and never stopped!
